Letter and Their Sounds Make Words

English words are made of letters and their sounds

In English, words, like sun, are made up of letters. Each of these English letters has a special sound.

For example, the letter S makes a /s/ sound. The letter U makes a /u/ sound, and the letter N makes a /n/ sound. In English, when we put certain letters and their sounds together, we form words.

Like this...

The letters S... U...N... /s/ /u/ /n/...

forms the word SUN

When learning to read in English, you will first learn about each of these letters and the sounds that they make.

As you learn and recognize each letter and their sound, your teacher will help you, as you start putting those sounds and letters together to form new English words.

After you form new words, you can use their pictures to help you know what those new words mean in the English language.

Soon you will not only be able to speak using new words in English, but you will know how to read those words as well!
